

Welcome to the IndianaMas project web site!

The Indiana MAS research project aims at providing a framework for the digital protection and conservation of rock art natural and cultural heritage sites, by storing, organizing and presenting information about them in such a way to encourage scientific research and to raise the interest and sensibility towards them from the common people.

The project is funded by MIUR through the highly competitive call of FIRB Futuro in Ricerca 2010, which addressed to young scientists who had an original and strong scientific plan. The project has a duration of 36 months, from 08/03/2012 through 07/03/2015, and has been funded for 747.600 EUR.
